

The New Way to Source from China

Practice has proven that it is not necessarily the most cost-effective way for global buyers to do business directly with factories.

Reasons follow:

- 01 Limited Factory Access
Only less than 5% of China's factories are within your reach.
- 02 Communication Barriers
Blocked by language, region, time zone and cultural gaps.
- 03 Lack of Supplier Trust
Factories won't offer full cooperation.
- 04 Uncompetitive Pricing
The 95% of factories you can't reach offer far better prices.
- 05 Time-Consuming Coordination
Draining hours in direct factory communication.
- 06 Quality Uncertainty
No guaranteed consistency in product quality.
