Enterprise Systemn

Young, average age of middle and senior management personnel is under 35 years old, with over a thousand people with management experience in large enterprises

Professional, providing over 10 internal, external, and expansion training sessions annually to enhance employee literacy.

Stable, with an annual revenue growth of over 10%, and metal zipper sales far ahead in the region.

Benefits, year-end bonuses, birthday gifts, holiday gifts, high-quality accommodation, employee travel.

Quality construction

As the foundation of Runhe's development, we have been continuously striving for quality construction. Currently, our professional physical properties laboratory has been put into use, with an annual investment of over one million yuan in quality construction and research and development. Our company's product quality has entered the forefront of the regional industry, and the product defect rate is steadily controlled within 3%.

Enterprise standardization

In order to further enhance the corporate image and strengthen the quality construction of the company's products, Runhe has started to comprehensively promote lean management work in recent years based on the original 6S movement. At present, after nearly two years of efforts, Runhe's various lean work has entered the formal stage, and product quality and enterprise efficiency have been greatly improved.

Enterprise planning

We expand brand awareness, expand outward, and tap potential inward through standardized enterprise management and quality construction, achieving leapfrog development. Strengthen internal management, gradually achieve a comprehensive transformation from simple management to market operation, expand brand advantages, explore and summarize product quality construction, and form products with independent intellectual property rights.

Zipper teeth

In response to the chaotic market situation of copper zipper Y teeth products, our company began a comprehensive and detailed classification of clothing, luggage, and shoe zippers in 2015. There is no phenomenon of material theft during the production process, and we have taken the lead in abandoning the Y-shaped square tooth points commonly produced in the regional industry and comprehensively changed them to Y-shaped circular tooth points. Although it has led to a significant increase in costs, it has reached the highest standards in the regional industry in terms of product strength, smoothness, and other physical properties.

Zipper tape

Starting from 2016, the Runhe zipper fabric tape process has undergone a comprehensive upgrade. Currently, our company uses the same raw materials as YKK for fabric tape production, with a relative price higher than that of its peers in the industry of over 3000 yuan/ton. At the same time, we are the first in the regional industry to implement secondary tape ironing. Although the cost is high, the smoothness and curvature of the product have been greatly improved.

Zipper surface treatment

In terms of product surface treatment, Runhe has always been at the forefront of the regional industry, among which the imitation copper aluminum Y-tooth zipper has been approved by the Zhejiang Provincial Institute of Science and Technology Information Research and applied for a patent. At present, our company's copper zipper surface treatment, aluminum zipper surface treatment, and resin zipper coating processes are stable in color fixation and have a wide variety of products, which have been fully recognized by our customers.
